Curriculum Sample

A Grade Ahead will challenge your students and help them achieve their goals!

Beginning in June 2020, our 5th graders will be participating in A Grade Ahead Online, a blended learning program that integrates both traditional and electronic methods to teach students.

Our students begin the week learning a lesson and answering practice questions with paper and pencil in our monthly lesson booklets. Then they go online to a website to complete three days of online activities to master the topic of the week.

Here's how it works:

Monthly Blended Learning Lesson Booklet

Students receive a lesson booklet each month that is broken in to four weeks. Every week, students are introduced to a new topic with explanations and examples followed by student practice questions.

At the end of this document, you will find a full sample of one week's lesson and practice problems from A Grade Ahead's 5th Grade English curriculum.

A Grade Ahead Online Activities

After learning the lesson and practicing problems with a traditional approach, students continue learning online through activities at online.gradeahead.com. Every week, students have three days of homework activities to practice vocabulary, grammar, and comprehension.

A Grade Ahead Online offers many benefits to students and parents, including

- Interactive and colorful questions with formats like matching, drag and drop, fill in the blank, multiple choice, and more.
- Automatic grading that saves times for parents and provides immediate feedback for students. They know whether they got a question right or wrong as they are going through the homework, so they can make adjustments if necessary.
- A rationale for every online question that explains the correct answer, so students can learn from their mistakes immediately.
- Student progress reports that are easily accessible without parents needing to upload any data. In fact, a parent has access to raw data from all of his or her student's online work.
- Adaptive learning paths that provide more challenging questions to students who perform well on the first set of activities.

ENGLISH

BLENDED LEARNING LESSON BOOKLET

NAME _____

A. Word List 7

1. ability	(n.)	a skill; the power to do something
2. animation	(n.)	excitement; a movie made with a series of drawings, pictures, or graphics
3. boast	(v.)	to brag; to talk about something in a proud way
4. competitive	(adj.)	wanting and trying to win; able to compete with people
5. eruption	(n.)	an explosion; the breaking out of one thing from another thing
6. fantasy	(n.)	from the imagination; not real; a book or movie that deals with imaginative things
7. isolated	(adj.)	alone; separate from others; happening only one time
8. motivation	(n.)	an event or force that gives the desire to do something
9. scenic	(adj.)	pleasant or beautiful in terms of scenery (forests, fields, etc.)
10. strategic	(adj.)	having a plan to achieve a goal

Student Goals:

- ✓ I will know the difference between fact and opinion.
- ✓ I will learn how to write effective prose constructed response.

Teaching Tip: Use one of the ideas from the Vocabulary and Writing Exercises supplement to give your students an extra challenge for their vocabulary and writing practice in class. At home, students must memorize spellings and meanings.

B. GrammarFact and Opinion

A fact is a statement that does not change from person to person. It is accurate information that is true and can be proven.

Examples: The capital of the state of Ohio is Columbus.
Everyone has a unique set of fingerprints.
Food and water are necessary for survival.

These are facts because they can be proven to be true. They are undeniable.

Note: Statements such as, "I like blue better than orange" and, "I prefer pepperoni on my pizza" are also facts. Even though these statements are beliefs that could change from person to person, the fact that they are "I" statements show that they are facts and true to the speaker.

An opinion is a belief that could change from person to person. It is based more on how one feels about a certain subject or statement, rather than whether or not that statement is the absolute truth for every person.

Examples: Math is the best subject in school!
Everyone likes to relax on the weekends.
Water is the most refreshing drink.

These are opinions because they cannot be proven. Not every person will agree with these statements.

Questions? Call 866.628.4628, chat at enrichmentathome.com, or email enrichmentathome@agradeahead.com.

Note: Adjectives like “good,” “better,” “best,” “worst,” and similar adjectives will usually indicate an opinion.

Teaching Tip: Teach students how they can add opinions in an effective, academic way to their writing in order to strengthen it. For example, instead of saying, “I think that ice cream is clearly the best dessert,” a student could say something like, “ice cream can be a refreshing dessert on a hot, summer day.” This statement is still an opinion, but it is backed up with evidence and avoids the use of the word “I.”

Write two facts and two opinions about yourself.

1. Fact: _____

2. Fact: _____

3. Opinion: _____

4. Opinion: _____

Student Practice

Students must answer in complete sentences.

C. Comprehension

Prose Constructed Response Question

A prose constructed response question is meant to help you learn to infer given a set of information.

The One-Paragraph Response

The one-paragraph response format is fairly strict. Remember, it is not a solution to all prose constructed response questions, but it is a good start for those who are unfamiliar with how to start a longer piece of writing.

Use the following excerpt to help you understand how to write a prose constructed response:

To infer is to make a conclusion based on evidence.

Gorillas are the largest mammals in the primate group. They live on land – usually in the forests of Africa – and mainly eat vegetation. They are closely related to humans. Gorillas live in large groups called “troops.” Troops usually have one male leader and several females with their offspring. Although gorillas are born into one group, they tend to move away from their original groups as they mature, in order to settle into new troops.

Step 1: 1st Sentence

The first sentence should state your position. First, it should restate the prompt; then, you might want to end the first sentence with phrases like “for many reasons” or “in many ways.” If the prompt is a “yes” or “no” question, be sure to answer “yes” or “no” first.

Example: Are gorilla families like human families?

“Yes, gorilla families are like human families in many ways.”

Step 2: 2nd-10th Sentences

Find and use three textual references that support the prompt. It is a good idea to include key words or direct quotes. Then, it is very important to explain what the quote means in your own words. Then explain why you know this quote works for the prompt. You might want to use sentences that start with phrases like “In the passage, the author states that...” and “This/That means...”

Example: “In the passage it says, ‘gorillas live in groups called troops.’ This means that gorillas live together in families. Humans also live in family groups; therefore, we know that gorillas and humans live similarly.”

Note: Direct quotes and keywords from a passage are useless as evidence without an explanation. Remember, you constantly need to defend your position. It might help to think of the question, “so what?” as you write.

Step 3: 11th-12th Sentences

If you have a personal experience or prior knowledge from your own life, you may choose to add it here. This is optional, but it strengthens your writing. Then explain how you know this to be true and related to the prompt. You might want to use sentences that begin with phrases like, “This reminds me of...”, “I learned...”, “Once when...”, and “Last year/week/month...”

Example: “This reminds me of my own family. We live together, eat meals together, and have fun together, just like gorillas.”

Step 4: 13th Sentence

The final sentence should restate the prompt in another way. You might want to begin concluding sentences with phrases like “All of these examples show...”, “In conclusion...”, and “For all of the above reasons...”

Example: “In conclusion, all of these examples show that gorilla families are in fact very similar to human families.”

Questions? Call 866.628.4628, chat at enrichmentathome.com, or email enrichmentathome@agradeahead.com.

Teaching Tip: Allow students as much freedom and creativity in writing assignments as possible. Let this be a time where it is less about a “right” answer and more about the exchange and presentation of ideas in a clear and logical manner.

Student Practice

Students should complete as many comprehension questions as possible, but focus on writing the PCR in class.

All questions must be attempted at home.

The Hawaiian Islands are the most isolated group of islands in the world. The nearest land mass is 2,500 miles away. The islands were created out of volcanic eruptions almost 25 million years ago, and there are still two active volcanoes on the Hawaiian Islands: Kilauea and Mauna Loa. There is also a mountain, Mauna Kea, which is the highest mountain in the world if it is measured from the bottom of the ocean.

The earliest settlers of Hawaii lived on the islands between 500 and 700 A.D. It became a U.S. territory in the late nineteenth century, but it didn’t become the 50th state until 1959. Because it has a strategic location, the U.S. has its largest naval base in Hawaii. The base, Pearl Harbor, was attacked by the Japanese in 1941, which caused the United States to enter World War II.

The Hawaiian Islands are in the Tropic of Cancer. Therefore, the weather is definitely something to boast about. The islands, especially in the lower altitude, experience summer all year round. The mountains are cooler and experience a sort of winter. The temperatures usually remain in the 80s with only minor variations during the winter. The tropical weather makes Hawaii a traveler’s haven. It is no surprise that these islands are the world’s number one visitor destination.

Visitors to the Hawaiian Islands are treated to balmy evenings, spectacular lush green golf courses, and fantastic water sports like surfing and windsurfing along the beaches. The heavy traffic of visitors has been influential in creating a wide network of hotels and motels to suit all tastes and budgets.

Hawaii has eight major islands that cover approximately 6,500 square miles. The island Oahu is home to the North Shore and its huge winter surf. It is also home to Pearl Harbor, Kailua’s beach, Diamond Head summit, and Honolulu’s historic downtown, which houses the only royal palace in the United States. Maui is known for whale watching, gorgeous beaches, and a winding coastal drive. The Big Island has Hawaii Volcanoes National Park, Rural Waipio Valley, Akaka Falls, ancient temple ruins, and the Place of Refuge. Kauai is known for the scenic beauty of its mountains, the Kokee State Park, hiking and nature trails, and excellent kayaking. The longest beach in Hawaii, Papohaku, is in Molokai. Lanai is famous for its luxury resorts and Hulopoe Bay for its diving and snorkeling.
